

What's Next? Ten Ideas to Keep You Going: Eliminating Brick Walls (reads better click here)

Has your family history momentum stalled? Or do you sometimes feel like you need a need a change of pace with your routine? Here is a great list of ten things you can do to jump-start your efforts, courtesy of GenealogyAtHeart. The ideas include planning for the future in your research, identifying areas of growth and learning, reaching out to others to discover missing pieces of information, and more. For more ideas on tasks and to-do lists, see Goal 1 in Project 4: Discover. (See all tips.)

Try This: RootsTech 2023 With World-Wide 2023 Virtual Attendance Coverage till 2025

“Never give up the ship, sell it you’ll make more money” which comes my wife’s’ genealogy! Original research can be very tedious and self-defeating over time whenever you hit brick walls regularly. One way to survive is to pursue memories such getting audio interviews, collecting and assembling and sharing/posting them as photo galleries, and perhaps best of all, attend family history conferences. And with the RootsTech 2023 Conference coming up soon on March 2-4, 2023, you can attend it virtually and can even stream its clinics 24/7 at your convenience till 2025.

Below is current registration that includes the following numbers of people 252,566 and 189 countries thus far. If you have a FamilySearch account with a family tree, you can find out who is related attending this conference for you along with the opportunity to view their family trees and send them a Message Center to network with them as well. Below is the most current update to my family history website which now also links directly to my family history blog that you are already familiar with and cited below last.

A screenshot of the FamilySearch website. The page is titled "RootsTech Relatives" and features a world map with several blue location pins. On the left, there is a list of relatives with their names and relationships. The list includes: Janettanish (My 2nd cousin once removed, Pennsylvania, United States), JuliaPeszynska (My 4th cousin three times removed, Ireland), sabrina garcia (My 4th cousin three times removed, Idaho, United States), David Mark30 (My job cousin), Gregtelep (My job cousin, United States), and AdeleRydzik. There is a "SHARE" button at the bottom left of the list. The top navigation bar includes "Family Tree", "Search", "Memories", "Get Involved", "Activities", and "Temple". The user's name "John Kuzmich" is visible in the top right corner.
