

Is Your Name in the Program? Seek Help and V.I.P Assistance: This posting reads better at <http://www.kuzmich4.com/Facebook/Is Your Name in the Program.pdf>

Good news travels fast! Perhaps even faster than bad news? Does your ward print a Sunday program? Do they list the key ward leaders on one of their pages? Is the ward temple and family history leader listed? Often the ward mission leader's contact information is listed but not the ward temple and family history leaders and consultants. In the Foothills Ward, I am the Temple & Family History Leader with the responsibilities of organizing and motivating 464 individual households to do their temple & family history endeavors which is not always an easy task. Fortunately, most of our members have either started it or have had other members of their extended family contribute documents. But family history is much more than just documentation about deceased people but rather in creating and sharing memories of their ancestors so that future generations are positively motivated to further build and expand to their family's expectations of excellence. All of us have been affected indirectly or directly by previous generations in our family lines along with specific individuals. Memories are what we all need. This positive reinforcement factor is important as to how we travel through life with regards for our personal, family, church and professional aspirations well into the future and beyond.

My Calling

Recognizing that the gathering is important on both sides of the veil, you might consider talking to the elders quorum presidency or program editor to ensure your local leaders are included in this important listing and better yet, take advantage of their special Church callings.

Closing Comments With Eternal Temple Aspirations For Everybody

If you are not familiar with temples in the Latter-day Saints church, there a world of benefits to learn about their Temple Ordinances. The Church of Jesus Christ now has 265 temples world-wide at <https://www.churchofjesuschrist.org/temples/list?lang=eng> either announced, under construction or operating. Each of the Church's temples is a "house of the Lord," where the teachings of Jesus Christ are reaffirmed. These are most sacred places of worship on the earth. Temples differ from the Church's chapels. To learn more the difference between temples and churches, each link given below image provides the who, what, where and whys about why LDS temples are so unusual in today's world of religion for it gives hope to all families in the world: past, present and future generations for both time and all for the eternities! Which is a rather unique characteristic to fully understand in affirming why temples are so essential to the Lord's Plan of Salvation for everybody ever born on the earth. This divine plan is so important to enhance temple and family history endeavors which are so vital in today's turbulent world life styles.
