Doubt kill more dreams than failure ever will” by Suzy Kassem is a good motto when persevering genealogical challenges. Hesitation is what can stall motivation easily and quickly. Never put yourself in a waiting game because when moments of inspiration can come, they can literally leave you as quickly as they manifest. The Spirit of the Lord is very special when taking advantage of it as it can yield more success going beyond the letter of law.

As noted in a previous post on this Facebook group with Record Search Tips for “FamilySearch:” The Best Free Genealogical Website! at: <http://www.kuzmich4.com/Facebook/FamilySearch4.pdf>, the best singular family history website is www.familysearch.org. Note: there are many worthy genealogical website competitors out but they are not free. For example, Ancestry.com comes out on top with over 20 billion records scanned and uploaded to its database. It also has a really easy-to-navigate interface, unlike some of the older competitor sites, and has DNA testing, too. Ancestry boasts more than 8 billion names than FamilySearch.org spread across more than 80 million individual family trees set up by their users. ... But FamilySearch, on the other hand, only has one single family tree, but every one of its users can contribute to that tree and see all of the records. MyHeritage DNA breaks the world down into 42 ethnic regions, which is actually quite good compared to most companies. ... However, AncestryDNA has used the DNA from the millions of people they have tested and compared that to available online family trees to generate as accurate a map of world ethnicities as they can.
