

Unique Family History Activities Planning Sheet and More!

As you select and carry out family history activities, this new Activities Planning Sheet in the Activities menu can be helpful. It's a Google spreadsheet with columns that list the titles of activities for families, individuals, youth, and kids; the date(s) you held the activity; planning notes as needed; notes for the next time the activity is held; and a rating from 1 to 5 (5=best). Once you open the sheet, use the File menu to make a copy to your own Google drive or download it as an Excel or OpenDocument spreadsheet. Then you can edit and customize it as you like. ### Closing Comments

To better follow through on expanding your family history activities, I suggest you go to the RootsTech 2021 Connect website and search on “Family History Activities” by going to the “Sessions” pull-down menu after logging into <https://www.familysearch.org/rootstech/rtc2021/>. Then the clinic of conference topics can be searched. Here's what I came up with no less than 46 different clinics to peruse. Resulting that every family can be benefitted by involving their entire family with insightful and meaningful activities. And with so many to choose from, there will be no boredom whenever in your household you mention “Family History Activities” in your family home evenings. Amen in establishing a positive connection at the grass-roots level in engaging your entire family in this eternal topic. And why not expand it at your next family reunion? Fortunately, all these video presentations will be posted and readily available for the next ten months. Don't hesitate to pursue them and you'll be blessed.
