

Partial Virtual Family Reunion, Part 1: Activities with technology that can add fun and excitement to your summer gathering including Memorial Day and other Holidays

With the cost of gasoline being a long-term problem, attending family reunions in person can be a difficult challenge when attempting to have everybody in attendance this summer. However, consider the benefits of augmenting your summer family reunion with a partial Virtual Family Reunion as a family gathering that takes place online using video meeting software like Zoom, GoToMeeting, GoogleMeeting, Skype and others. The actual gathering doesn't have to be lengthy because it could be concise and can be in several sessions to better involve those family meetings that can't attend the gathering with even more special and meaningful events and memories. Smartphones, tablets and notebooks are all portable for creative use rather than being frozen behind a desktop computer. And multiple connections can be used simultaneously on individual smartphones, tablets and notebooks as well for enhanced candid actions. And don't neglect international family members as well! Finding convenient time zones can be an issue with international family members as well.

Virtual family reunion ideas are ways to connect with relatives during the online event with games and special activities to engage and entertain the audience. Social media generally is a good way to develop group activities. The more people that participate, the greater the excitement. With high prices for gasoline, a partial virtual family reunion can be easier to organize than just dealing with travel arrangements, accommodations and high fuel prices with a large group of extended family members. Virtual attendance can be a unique opportunity to involve more family members along with special events. Thinking "outside the box" can be both challenging and rewarding depending on the efforts you put into planning. While special meals can be enjoyable and tasty, social interaction between all family members is equally as rewarding and necessary. Never hesitate to turn a disadvantage into a positive opportunity which is what life is all about. Family Reunions can be a very positive tradition and can be done more frequently when accomplished virtually which can make them even more significant with grandchildren.
