

Father's Day June 21, 2020: 7 Unique and Meaningful Father's Day Gifts

Looking for inspiration for Father's Day? Check this post at ThisFamilyBlog.com by Jen Tousey which was later published on The Family History Guide. "Living our lives one adventure at a time. We like genealogy and culture, history and travel...and we love it best when we are all together." Amen when considering the isolation that the coronavirus has caused on us all. For example for this Father's Day, I will not be with any of my children and grandchildren. Below are seven meaningful ingredients that Jen considers essential for Father's Day. His writing style is catchy, humorous and to the point. Be sure to take heart to his unique and meaningful thoughts.

The History of Father's Day Father's Day actually has roots going back to the early Middle ages, just after the fall of the Roman Empire in Europe. Churches celebrated a version of it for centuries, and the Catholic Church still does. But, it took until the 1970s for it to become a nationally recognized holiday in the United States. The nation's first Father's Day was celebrated on June 19, 1910, in the state of Washington. However, it was not until 1972–58 years after President Woodrow Wilson made Mother's Day official—that the day honoring fathers became a nationwide holiday in the United States. Father's Day 2020 occurs on Sunday, June 21.

The best advice I give to all of our faithful Facebook Group followers is that we need to record our stories and share them with our families. Even after 48 years of marriage, Roslyn learns something new and unique about me every once in a while, and immediately shares it via text messaging with my children and grandchildren enthusiastically. In fact, it leads to multiple interactive jokes and humorous scenarios between us all far exceeding the message of the original text. Don't hesitate to share those memories and your family will grow more together in appreciating the hardships and challenges that all of us have to endure and survive in this life. By sharing, we strengthen our families both now and in the future.

Happy Father's Day to each and everyone of our families! May you all have the technology available to interact with distance-separated family members and friends via Facetime, Google Duo, and/or Zoom with your family members near and far.
